

MICHIGAN PRISON SCANDALS AIRED

SOVIETS GIVE
U. N. MEETING
NEW PROBLEMMOVE FOR CLOSING
IRAN CASE COMES AS SURPRISE

BY MAX HARRELSON
New York, April 8 (AP)—Secretary of States James F. Byrnes indicated today that the United States is opposed to dropping the Iranian case from the United Nations Security Council agenda as demanded by Russia, but he suggested the American delegation would be willing to examine the Soviet proposal.

As Byrnes stated the American position at a news conference in Washington after talking with President Truman there were these other developments in the United Nations council:

1. Iranian Ambassador Hussein Ala disclosed that he had asked his home government for further instructions and awaited its reply, which may profoundly influence the Security Council.

2. The Brazilian delegate, Dr. Leao Velloso, declared that while he opposed the Soviet move "it is logically up to Iran, and not to Russia, to ask that it be disposed of."

3. Byrnes, who led the fight against Russia on the Iranian issue, said he would not return to the council meetings since he is preparing for the conference of the big four foreign ministers in Paris.

4. Translated texts of Soviet Ambassador Gromyko's letter to Chairman Quo Tai-Chi demanding removal of the Iranian matter from the agenda were distributed this evening among the delegations.

Delegates were generally agreed that Gromyko's letter would not come up for discussion at tomorrow's session on procedural rules, and the secretariat confirmed that it was not on the provisional agenda.

Battle Ahead
Ambassador Gromyko remained noncommittal on the question of resuming attendance at the council meetings since his walkout on March 27 in protest against placing the Iranian case on the agenda.

In any event, the council appeared to be headed toward a battle over the question of whether Russia's demand should be considered immediately or be postponed for three days.

The immediate question before the council was one of procedure, but it was important because the delegates were taken by surprise by Russia's move and most of them had to dispatch hurried messages to their governments asking for instructions.

Few, if any, of them had received these instructions, tonight and, as a result, they were reluctant to comment on the Russian proposal that the Iranian question be taken from the council's agenda.

Gromyko Holds Out
The council voted last Thursday to keep the case on the agenda until May 6 and at that time to ask Russia and Iran to report the status of Soviet troop withdrawals from Iran.

Both the delegates and the secretariat expressed uncertainty as to what would happen tomorrow. This was partly due to the refusal of Soviet Delegate Andrei A. Gromyko to say definitely what his plans were.

Gromyko would not indicate whether he would demand immediate action on his proposal or let it come up after a three-day delay, which is the normal course under the rules of procedure for all matters except the most urgent.

A Soviet spokesman said Gromyko still was undecided whether he would attend tomorrow.

Jap Premier Walks
Out On Communists;
Election Enlivened

BY RUSSELL BRINES

Tokyo, Tuesday, April 9 (AP)—Aged Premier Kijuro Shidehara brushed off detaining hands of a leftist delegation and walked out late yesterday on demands for his resignation. The incident pointed up a reawakened public interest in tomorrow's general election.

The previously apathetic campaign for the Diet had led Japanese observers to predict a light vote. But they changed their minds as the result of a riotous Communist-led demonstration Sunday, the tense drawing-room drama in Shidehara's home, and heavy returns from an isolated precinct which votes early.

The "Democratic People's Front" sent a 14-man committee to make the demands on Shidehara.

Led by Kyuichi Tokuda, secretary of the Communist party, they argued their way past the premier's secretaries. For 45 minutes they accused him of failing to solve the country's many problems and demanded that his entire cabinet quit immediately.

Struggling visibly for self-possession, the 74-year-old premier repeatedly replied, "I came here to listen to you, not to argue."

Shidehara sat behind a small desk and stared at the ceiling while the committee, correspondents, employees and bodyguards milled around the noisy room.

Suddenly one committeeman called attention to a bulge in a bodyguard's pocket and shouted, "Look, he's got a gun."

Committeemen grabbed the bodyguard's arm and a melee appeared imminent. Then Shidehara calmly said, "I have another engagement," and stalked through the door.

Some reached out to stop him but the Communist leader said, "Let him go," and bodyguards pushed a path through the throng.

Japanese political observers voiced belief that Shidehara had no intention of quitting and that the next move was strictly up to the Leftists.

Later Shidehara issued a statement saying the emperor had urged all of Japan's 36,000,000 voters to go to the polls because the election "will greatly affect the destiny of our national future."

The official said the fate of 100 workmen who were inside the dump had not been learned. Earlier reports indicated that another 50 persons suffered lesser injuries.

The blasts continued into the night at the rate of one to ten per minute, throwing the city into a condition of near panic. A French military spokesman said the explosions may not be brought under full control before two or three days.

He said casualties might rise considerably. It was impossible to check inside the danger area, which was pelted by shrapnel. The casualty figure did not include scores of persons injured by falling roofs and flying glass.

The explosions were so great that concussion smashed open locked doors of the United States consulate, nearly a mile away. A number of United States civilians took refuge aboard the Victory ship Arthur Penn.

Truckloads of injured, including women and children and French servicemen, poured into the city's hospitals. By noon officials had lost count of the wounded. Roads leaving the city were clogged with people.

Seizure Of Homes
For Yank Housing
Stuttgart, Germany, April 8 (AP)—In the second demonstration here in two weeks, 300 Germans paraded through Stuttgart streets today in protest against the seizure of their homes to house the families of American servicemen.

The orderly demonstration dispersed when Lt. Col. Charles Jackson, military government director of Stuttgart, received a delegation of house owners and warned that no further demonstrations would be permitted.

MINE WORKERS
GO INTO COURTNegaunee Mayor Cited
For Aiding Violence
At Strikers' Rally

Ishpeming, Mich., April 8 (AP)—Mayor Alvin C. Hampton of nearby Negaunee, and 53 members of the CIO United Steel Workers were charged in circuit court today with violation of an anti-picketing injunction in connection with the two-months old strike in the Marquette Iron Range.

Circuit Judge Herbert W. Runnels ordered the defendants to show cause April 17 why they should not be punished for contempt of court.

The injunction, granted March 19, restrained striking iron miners from interfering with workers or others wishing to enter the mines.

Four mining companies filed petitions in which they alleged that Mayor Hampton encouraged violence at a strikers' rally by urging the audience to assault a mine superintendent if he attempted to pass through a picket line.

John V. Riffe, an international USA-CIO representative, was accused in the petitions of having told the same audience that if workers attempted to enter the mines through picket lines "let your conscience be your guide" and don't have too much conscience.

The strike began Feb. 8 in a union demand for a 13 1/2 cent hourly wage increase and ended between 7,000 and 8,000 workers in the Upper Peninsula of Michigan. The companies contend they cannot meet the wage demand and continue operations. The average hourly wage before the strike began, the union said, was approximately $1.00 an hour.

Republicans Launch
Campaign To Limit
President's Tenure

Washington, April 8 (AP)—House Republicans launched a drive today for prompt action to limit the tenure of office of the president of the United States.

Under the leadership of Rep. Dirksen of Illinois and with the support of House Republican Leader Martin of Massachusetts, they filed with the speaker a "discharge petition" to force a vote.

Specifically they want action on a resolution submitting to the states a proposed constitutional amendment to limit the president's tenure to a single term of six years. Dirksen introduced it more than a year ago but it has been pigeonholed in a House elections committee.

Home Building Fund Approved

Temporary Housing For Veterans Families To Cost $253,727,000

BY WILLIAM T. PEACOCK
Washington, April 8 (AP)—A $253,727,000 fund to get temporary housing for veterans cleared congress today while the senate debated the administration's plan to spend $600,000,000 on building material subsidies.

The senate last night passed the bill temporarily to pass the $253,727,000 appropriation and send it to President Truman. It is intended to provide 102,350 temporary homes for veterans and their families by remodeling war-time barracks and temporary housing.

The program calls, too, for moving these facilities from industrial centers, if no longer needed, to college towns overflowing with veterans going to school under the G. I. bill of rights.

The senate quit for the day without voting on any points of the building subsidy legislation. Majority Leader Barkley of Kentucky told reporters after the session that he hoped for a final vote tomorrow.

In today's debate, charges were made that OPA's pricing policies have helped create the building materials shortage.

Senator McClellan (D-Ark.) told his colleagues "the reason for the lumber shortage is the failure of OPA to get together with the industry on a price which will permit production."

Veteran Of Detroit School System Dies
Detroit, April 8 (AP)—Frank Cody, member of the Detroit city council and for 23 years superintendent of schools, died today at his home. He was 75 years old. Cody had been in failing health for the last year and his condition became worse two months ago. He had not attended council sessions since Feb. 12.

A native of Belleville, Mich., Cody was elected to the city council three times, first in 1942 at a special election and again in the regular city elections of 1943 and 1945.

His service with Detroit's schools ended in 1942, but in 1944 the American Association of School Administrators named him the "outstanding man of the year in education."

INDUCTION BAN
DRAFT ACTIONPAY OF ENLISTED MEN RAISED IN
VINSON BILL

Washington, April 8 (AP)—Influential House military committee members today reported war department willingness to compromise on a 12-month draft act extension with a four to six months ban on inductions.

The Army's position was disclosed to reporters after Rep. Vinson (D-Ga.) introduced legislation to start a $3,000,000 enlistment campaign and suspend inductions for six months to give it time to be tested.

Earlier in the day Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower had appealed once again to the Senate military committee to continue the draft, declaring that to end it would be to "gamble" with the security of the nation and the peace of the world.

$3,000,000 for Recruiting
Both Senate and House military committees may vote tomorrow various proposals to extend the law, expiring May 15 of this year. Some members want a straight-away extension others want inductions banned until next Feb. 15.

Vinson's proposal, which would raise the pay of all enlisted personnel, would allow the president to reinstate inductions after Nov. 15 if voluntary enlistments fell short.

Vinson's measure would increase the pay of all enlisted men, the increases ranging from 100 percent for privates to 30 percent for master sergeants, and give them 30 days leave a year. It also would provide $3,000,000 for an intensive recruiting campaign.

Eisenhower agreed with Senator Johnson (D-Colo.), a draft opponent, that it is Congress' task to find ways to get the needed men—that the Army's job ends with saying how many it needs and advising on the basis of experience how many will be produced by various plans.

The chief of staff gave his own opinion, however, that the draft is the "only way" the problem can be met without gambling unnecessarily.

"Any gamble with the national security of the United States at this time is a gamble with the peace and security of the world," he told the Senate military committee. "With all the sincerity and force that I possess, I urge you, do not take this gamble."

Passing Score Raised
The general's appeal was a last-minute matter. Both the Senate and House military committees have agreed to vote at closed sessions tomorrow on the administration's politically touchy request for a one-year extension with inductions serving 18 months.

During sharp questioning by senators, Eisenhower conceded that 18-year-old youths do not make the best soldiers for occupation of Germany and Japan; that estimates on Army shortages, if the draft dies, vary from 165,000 to more than 400,000; and that during the past month the Army has reduced the possible number of volunteers by raising the passing score for its aptitude tests.

Eisenhower pointed out the local draft boards already have "combed

Kelly Pushes State
Building, Checks Up On Federal Freeze

Lansing, April 8 (AP)—Governor Kelly declared today that the state building program "can't wait around" and asserted that "we want an answer from the federal government on how much we can build" as a result of the federal freeze order on building.

Kelly, after meeting with the state building committee and officials of state educational institutions and hospitals, reported that the educational facilities and hospital program now under contract or ready for a contract would "take a surprisingly small amount of critical materials."

He announced he would meet in Detroit Tuesday afternoon with John McGillis, district manager of the Civilian Production Administration, to give him "a complete analysis of the projects and the amount of critical material necessary to carry it on."

"We hope to get permission to proceed with the building program," he asserted.

Big 4 Ministers
Plan To Meet In Paris April 25

Washington, April 8 (AP)—Russia and Britain have agreed to a meeting of Big Four foreign ministers beginning in Paris, April 25, Secretary Byrnes said today.

Byrnes disclosed that Foreign Ministers Molotov of Russia and Bevin of Britain had replied affirmatively to his proposal for the meeting, but said he had not yet heard from France.

The secretary of state proposed the Big Four meeting of foreign ministers last Friday in an effort to avert postponement of the 21-nation peace conference scheduled to open in Paris not later than May 1, under terms of the Moscow Big Three communique of last December.

At his news conference today, however, Byrnes declined to say whether the peace conference could open on schedule. He said the foreign ministers would have to make the decision if they decide to hold their advance meeting April 25.

At his news conference Byrnes also:

1. Disclosed that the United States will give the newly-elected Peron government of Argentina a chance to fulfill its hemisphere obligations and will sign the projected Pan-American defense treaty with Argentina when it has done so.

2. Indicated the United States believes the Russian-Iranian dispute should not be removed from the United Nations security council agenda before May 6, but expressed a willingness to examine any proposal along that line submitted by the Soviet Union.

3. Said he had decided definitely not to sit in himself on further security council sessions at this time, leaving that job to the regular U. S. representative, Edward R. Stettinius, Jr.

4. Declined to express a definite opinion on the Polish proposal for security council action against the Franco government of Spain, saying he would first want to know what action was proposed.

Byrnes remarked however, that the U. S. recently had advised France it did not regard Franco as a menace to international peace and security, and therefore a proper subject for council action.

5. Confirmed reports that George S. Messersmith, ambassador to Mexico, will be the new ambassador to Argentina, and that William D. Pawley, New Peruvian envoy, will be the new ambassador to Brazil.

French embassy officials later assured a reporter that the delay in their government's answer to the proposal is "mechanical."

NAVY WILL PUT ON WAR GAMES

Maneuvers This Month
In Atlantic Take In
29 Fighting Ships

Washington, April 8 (AP)—The United States will assemble 29 fighting ships for full scale war games beginning this month in the Atlantic.

Two giant carriers and a super-battleship will be included in the exercises scheduled to last five weeks. The ships will range from Trinidad to the Virginia Capes and eastward as far as Bermuda.

Admiral Marc A. Mitscher, commander of the 8th fleet, who gave details of the war games to a news conference today, said in response to a question:

"We're not going anywhere we are not wanted. We'll stay strictly in our own waters."

The maneuvers will begin on April 19 following a rendezvous of the fleet southeast of the Virginia Capes. The first exercises will extend through April 27. Then the fleet will anchor at Trinidad, the American leased base at the British island, for three or four days.

In the second phase, operations will be confined to the Caribbean with the ships putting in at Guantanamo, Cuba, on May 8, at the conclusion of that phase.

During the third phase from May 12 to 17, the force will operate north of Cuba and on its final maneuvers, May 20-26, the force will swing past Bermuda enroute to New York.

Light Bulb Keeper
In Michigan Capitol
Has No Light Task

Lansing, April 8 (AP)—Unscrambling light bulbs while hanging 250 feet in mid-air might be a strange way to make a living but it's routine for the electricians at Michigan's capitol building.

Twice yearly they replace the bulbs which light the capitol dome at night.

In the fall, all 736 of the 25-watt globes come out and new ones substituted. In the spring, only those which have broken or burned out during the winter months are replaced.

The dome was wired in November, 1905—five years after electricity was installed in the capitol—at a cost of $1218, and was blacked out during the war years. Last August, new lights were installed and the capitol gleamed anew.

Electrician Ray Charles said he is waiting for a suitable day to begin the spring replacement job and expects to substitute about 100 new light bulbs for old.

Friend Of Il Duce
Jailed, Wishes She Had Died With Him

Paris, April 8 (AP)—Madeleine Caraboeu, beautiful 41-year-old friend of the late Benito Mussolini, was in jail tonight on a charge of intelligence with the enemy.

She was arrested last night on a court warrant which charged her name was found on a German list of persons who had the confidence of Italian Fascist circles.

The brunette actress, known to the prewar Paris theatrical world as Magda Le Fontaines, was quoted by court attaches as saying she wished she "could have been killed by the side of my old friend (Mussolini), instead of Clara Faccini"—Il Duce's mistress who was executed with him.

GUARDS TELL
ABOUT LAXITY
IN DISCIPLINEAPPEALS OF OUSTED
OFFICIALS GET HEARING

Lansing, April 8 (AP)—Attorney General John R. Dethmers began today to build a picture of "malodorous" conditions behind the walls of the state prison of southern Michigan as the state civil service commission opened hearings on the appeals of six former prison officials ousted on charges of maladministration.

The six dismissed are Harry H. Jackson, former warden; George L. Francis, former deputy warden; Richard Riley, former athletic director; H. Charles Watson, former records clerk; Joseph G. Polier, former inmate accountant; and Walter L. Wilson, former guard inspector. D. C. Pettit, former assistant deputy warden, withdrew his appeal from his dismissal.

"Big Shots" Favored
Bringing three prison guards to the witness stand Dethmers sought to construct a "general picture of disorder, lack of harmony, lack of discipline, and rivalry" in what has been called "the world's biggest walled prison."

The witnesses differed about the causes of lax discipline, but all cited what they said were instances of superior officers failing to support the disciplinary moves of guards, especially where "big shot" inmates were involved.

Newton W. Shafer, a guard for 14 years, testified his only experience had involved Chester Jurczynski, known as "Big Moe," who was listed by Dethmers in his report of an investigation of the prison as one of the "ruling clique" which had "improper control" of prison affairs.

Shafer testified that "Big Moe" evaded his instructions not to leave the yard and was cited for insubordination. When no action was taken in 24 hours, Shafer said, he appealed to Warden Jackson and asked "why he didn't go in the hole" (prison slang for the punishment cells).

Warden Upset
Shafer said Jackson ordered the inmate "sent to the hole" but that it did not transpire and that he appealed to Jackson a second time. "The warden was very much upset," Shafer said. "Twice the orders were given to Pettit, the witness said."

"Big Moe never went to the hole and I doubt if the warden knows to this day that he didn't," Shafer testified. "I didn't go back to the warden again. I was pretty disgraced. I had the reputation of being a strict disciplinarian and when I failed it took the heart out of the others. If they had dared defy the warden, I didn't think a little fellow like me would get very far."

Shafer however testified that much of the lax discipline was due to a shortage of guards and to temporary war-time guard replacements. He said the guard school was closed during the war and that the "30-day wonders" (new guards) did not uphold discipline.

Agreeing that there were "political inmates" who "wore white shirts, had office assignments and possibly more privileges," Shafer

PRINTER SLAYS
FOUR WITH PICK

Wife, Mother And 2 Sons
Killed In Des Moines
Front Yard

Des Moines, April 8 (AP)—Slashing wildly with a pick mattock, a Des Moines printer hacked four members of his family to death in their front yard today and terrorized the neighborhood with a shotgun before police wounded and captured him, Detective Chief Paul Castelline said.

The man, William C. Irwin, 41, also shot and wounded a 5-year-old neighbor girl en route to school, killed Dan, the family dog, with the grubbing tool and showered police and neighboring houses with shotgun pellets before surrendering meekly to a patrolman he'd known for 20 years, the officer added.

Treated for a leg flesh wound, Irwin was stripped and lodged in a padded cell at police headquarters.

Castelline filed a first degree murder charge against Irwin, accusing him of slaying the four members of his family. At the printer's arraignment this afternoon he did not enter a plea, but said he wanted an examination by an insanity specialist. He was held without bond and transferred to the county jail.

Mrs. Edith Irwin, 38, the man's wife, and Mrs. Mary Alice Irwin, 64, his mother, were dead when police arrived. Two sons, John, 8, and Henry, 5, died en route to a hospital.

A third son, William, Jr., 11, had left for school before the slayings.

Governor Announces
Plans For Revival
Of National Guard

Lansing, April 8 (AP)—Governor Kelly said reactivation of the Michigan National Guard with a potential strength of 24,000 officers and men is planned.

The chief executive revealed he had accepted the war department's proposed allotment of National Guard troops to the state.

In addition to an infantry division tentatively designated the 46th, the Michigan allotment would include separate companies and battalions.

Reactivation would give Michigan National Guard troops for the first time since the 32nd "Red Arrow" division, which distinguished itself in both world wars, was called to federal service in 1940.

NEW ARGENTINA POLICY DRAFTED

U. S. Gives Peron Chance To Live Up To His Commitments

BY JOHN SCALI
Washington, April 8 (AP)—The United States confirmed a change in its Latin American policy tonight by declaring it would sign a hemisphere defense pact with Argentina if the regime there lived up to its commitments.

Previously, emphasis had been placed on denunciations of the Argentine government and refusal to sit down with it to draw the defense pact.

Secretary of State Byrnes issued a memorandum at his news conference revealing this government's readiness to relax its stand provided the newly elected regime

Col. Juan Peron "will give hearty and prompt support to the acts and commitments under the inter-American system."

But, said the American document bluntly, "there must be deeds and not merely promises."

Previously the state department, in refusing to participate with Argentina in a treaty-making conference, had charged that the military government headed by Gen. Edelmir Farrell had paid only lip service to its pledges to:

1. Depose Nazi agents.
2. Liquidate Nazi holdings and assets.
3. Eliminate Nazi propaganda activities.

Under the new arrangement, to which a majority of the 19 other American republics have agreed, Col. Peron's government will be given a reasonable time to fulfill the promises Argentina made at the Chapultepec conference in Mexico City early in 1945.

High Court Halts Ku Klux Leader's Freedom Attempt

Indianapolis, April 8 (AP)—The Indiana supreme court today called a temporary halt to litigation by C. C. Stephenson, former Indiana grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan, who is trying for the fortieth time to obtain his freedom from a life prison sentence imposed in 1925.

The state supreme court prohibited Judge Cassius M. Gentry of Hamilton county circuit court from acting further in Stephenson's case. Judge Gentry had granted the former Klan leader a writ of habeas corpus which had the effect of permitting him to remain in the Noblesville jail where he has spent more than 13 months while trying to obtain a new trial.

Deputy State Attorney General Frank E. Coughlin said the supreme court action barred Judge Gentry from enforcing any orders previously issued by him and would restore an order by Special Judge Cleon Mount to Stephenson's return to the Indiana state prison.

Stephenson was convicted of murder in the death of Miss Madge Oberholzer, Indiana statehouse employee. The state charged he refused her medical attention after she took poison.

Judge Gentry was given until April 15 to show why the supreme court order should not be made permanent.

Wage Board Denies 18-Cent Basis For Dairy Price Raise

Washington, April 8 (AP)—The National Wage Stabilization Board refused today to approve all of an 18-cent an hour wage increase as a basis for a price rise.

The decision was the first of its kind.

It affects 14 Detroit milk dealers supplying 75 percent of the city's milk. They have been paying the 18-cent increase since March 2, following a 10-day strike of 1,175 members of the CIO United Dairy Workers.

The board ruled that only 10 cents of the increase might be used by the companies as a basis for seeking price relief from the OPA.

Four-Ton Cargo Container Is Now Used On Airlines

Burbank, Calif.—Slick, streamlined all-metal cargo containers, that fit snugly to the undersides of the bodies of giant Constellation airliners and hold four tons of baggage each, have been developed and tested here by the Lockheed Aircraft Corporation, builders of the Constellation. The detachable container, called a Speedpak, can be attached to the belly of the fuselage in two minutes, or removed in the same brief time.

The giant transport, with the loaded Speedpak attached, can be used for flights up to 1,500 miles. Its speed is decreased by only about 10 miles an hour. The plane's flight characteristics are not impaired. An important feature of the Speedpak is the ease with which ground attendants can load and unload passenger baggage, thus decreasing long waits at airports. A built-in electric hoist instantly lowers the Speedpak to convenient loading height, and as quickly raises it into position to be locked for flight.

Coon Succeeds Wickman As Mayor Of Escanaba

Marvin L. Coon became Escanaba's new mayor last night as members of the city council, acting on the motion of ex-mayor Sam R. Wickman, unanimously voted him that honor at their reorganization session in the city hall. There were no other nominations.

Veteran Councilman Peter N. Logan was named mayor pro-tem, also unanimously.

In their next action, councilmen re-appointed to the board of review, three of the city's representatives on the county board of supervisors, Charles Priestler, C. W. Stoll and Elmer Kiesel.

"You are now commander of the good ship 'Escanaba'," Councilman Wickman said, as he handed the gavel of office to Mayor Coon.

The new mayor, in a brief talk, thanked the council for its election.

TRANSIT TIEUPS ENDED MONDAY

Detroit And Saginaw Transportation Is Back To Normal

Detroit, April 8 (AP)—Normalcy returned to strike-beset transit systems in two Michigan cities today, leaving a week-long paralysis here and 30-hour walkout in Saginaw only a memory.

Detroit's 5,200 bus and trolley operators, who accepted a 15-cent hourly raise and voted Sunday to go back to work, meanwhile counted their lost wages at $313,000. The city's downtown stores reported average Monday crowds today and claimed they suffered only minor loss of sales during the strike.

General Manager Richard A. Sullivan of the department of street railways estimated the new contract granted the AFL operators would cost the city $215,000 more a year. The DSR also was out $850,000 in revenue for the strike, he said.

Partial service was restored on the Detroit lines soon after the back-to-work vote was taken at a mass meeting, where the strikers also agreed to submit the issue of "check-in and check-out" pay to arbitration. Near normal operations were carried on Sunday evening.

The Saginaw tieup, called by members of the CIO United Auto Workers virtually without warning at 6 a. m. Sunday, was ended officially at 2 a. m. today but buses did not begin rolling until noon.

GUARDS TELL ABOUT LAXITY IN DISCIPLINE

said "I didn't have much trouble with them because I didn't back up for them."

"Wolves" Get "Kids"

Shaffer testified he believed "Big Moe," who was employed in the hall office (office of the guard captain) sold cell assignments.

This was done to permit "so-called prison wolves to get next to their 'kids,'" he said. He testified "There is a lot more degeneracy in the prison than the public thinks."

Testifying some segregation of pervers was in force, the witness said "Personally, I believe that if they segregated them they would have to split the prison in half."

He said Deputy Warden George L. Francis, one of those dismissed, relieved "Big Moe" of his hall office job more than a year ago.

Cell block rules were interpreted differently by individual officers, he said.

Squealing Wins Favor

Eugene B. Powley, a guard for four years, testified it was "difficult to get the support of superiors" in disciplinary matters, but he added "any time I went to Mr. Francis for assistance I got it."

"I can say truthfully and honestly," he said, "that it created an attitude of futility and uselessness." He declared he had no instruction when he took up guard duties and seldom saw the top officials inside the prison.

When "well known people who had been out on parole" returned to prison, Powley said, "Big Moe" went to see them in the quarantine cells where no inmates are supposed to be allowed and no guards ventured to stop him.

The prison, he said, was "run by the Fink system," which he defined as "lending itself to snitching, squealing and informing to obtain favors."

Too Strict For Pets

There was "a lot" of gambling within the prison, Powley said, but guards "generally understood" they were not to interfere with it on holidays. He testified there was an "aristocrat block" in which inmates were permitted to have their doors open when inside their cells and to "stand count" in the cell doors.

Powley testified on cross examination he had been a CIO organizer for four years and also that he had served a 65-day sentence in the Detroit house of correction when 19 years of age for disorderly conduct.

Guard Archer testified he was removed from duty in the "aristocrat" block because he was too strict. "I was getting those politicians so they went in their cells pression of confidence and said he hoped he would handle the duties of his office as capably as his predecessor.

Besides the three re-elected, there were nominations for two others to the board of review. Councilman Logan nominated Einar Erlandsen, 1014 North 16th street, who received two votes in the balloting. Mayor Coon nominated Robert Lemire, who received one vote. Stoll received five votes, Priestler four, and Kiesel three.

Other Business

The regular business of reorganization formally disposed of, the council listened to and granted the request of Willard Berro, who proposes to build a gas and oil service station, auto repair and welding shop at the corner of 23rd street and Third avenue north. Approval was necessary as that corner is in a class B residential district and any commercial construction would be in violation of the zoning ordinance without its permission.

Councilmen also agreed to study the matter of amending the zoning ordinance to make that particular part of the city either a commercial or industrial district.

May Buy Trucks

Permission was given City Manager Art Aronson to inspect some surplus army equipment at Baraboo, Wis., and purchase, if they are found satisfactory, several half and three-quarter ton used army trucks, all 1944 models. Price is between $600 and $700 for each.

The city manager told councilmen that permission has been secured by the city from the owners of a number of lots in the downtown area for their use as parking places. The city will pay the taxes on the property in exchange for their use. The lots are located at Ninth and Ludington, Tenth street and Ludington, next to the city hall, in the 1200 block of Ludington street where a new theater will eventually be constructed and between 12th and 13th street on First avenue north. Council instructed the manager to make an offer of purchase of the last named property for $800 to its owner, who now lives in Menominee.

The second reading of the ordinance establishing a city Housing Commission was read at the meeting. The ordinance will become effective (unless objections are made to the council) 15 days after its official publication in the local newspaper.

Regarding the ordinance and the housing situation, Mr. Aronson reported that the 25 housing units promised the city when all regulations of the Federal Public Housing Authority are conformed with, will consist of 13 two-family unit Quonset huts.

Just before the meeting's end, Mayor Coon proposed a resolution, accepted without dissent by the council, which will excuse his occasional absence from council meetings while he is still in service. The mayor explained that he may have to be out of the city for short periods of time until he is officially relieved of duty with the navy.

Gerald L. K. Smith Sentenced To Jail In Court Contempt

Chicago, April 8 (AP)—Gerald L. K. Smith, head of the America First party, today was sentenced to 60 days in jail for contempt of court for distribution of statements to reporters during the trial of an associate.

In passing sentence, Municipal Judge John V. McCormick said "if the conduct of you and your associates in and toward an American court of law affords a test of your attitude toward other American institutions, it behooves Americans to look squarely at the philosophy which confronts them."

Smith and his publicity agent, Don Lohbeck of Detroit, were cited for contempt March 28 during the disorderly conduct trial of Arthur W. Terminiello, suspended Catholic priest and Smith associate. The statements, distributed in the courtroom during a recess, declared the prosecution in the trial "has no leg to stand on" and called it a "cold blooded persecution."

Army Ground Force Discharges Speeded; Enlisted Men Move

Washington, April 8 (AP)—A two and a half month speed-up in discharge for army ground forces enlisted personnel was announced today by Gen. Jacob L. Devers, commander of the army ground forces.

Beginning today all ground forces enlisted men eligible for discharge by June 30th, will be moved to separation centers for release as rapidly as possible.

Personnel returning from overseas who are eligible for discharge by June 30 are being sent immediately to separation centers.

Grover said he appealed successfully to Warden Jackson for authority to remove a "place of corruption" within a wall of lockers in the middle of the prison.

It was restored. "I had to buy a padlock out of my own pocket to lock the back door of the mill," he said.

American Tobacco Company Workers Settle Walkout

Philadelphia, April 9 (Tuesday) (AP)—Representatives of 700 striking CIO American Tobacco Company workers early today accepted an agreement ending a six-month old walkout.

The agreement, providing a general wage increase to all workers of 12 to 15 cents an hour, was reached after labor-management negotiations which began at 11 a. m. yesterday and continued virtually with interruption until 1 a. m. today.

The strike, longest in Pennsylvania, began last Oct. 15.

Mrs. Jessica Rhine, regional representative of the Federation of United Food, Tobacco and Agricultural Workers of America (CIO), said the settlement would be presented for ratification to the workers at a meeting at 11 a. m. today.

John Meade, director of labor relations for the company, said if the workers ratify the pact—which provides, besides the wage increase, maintenance of membership, check-off of dues and a non-discrimination clause—maintenance employees would return to work Wednesday morning and "full production would resume not later than next Monday."

Palbearers will be: Oscar E. Oie, William Joslin, John Keeton, Howard Norton, Donald Evans and George Cowell. All are members of the Masonic lodge. Beaulieu funeral home is in charge. Burial will be in Maple Grove cemetery.

Miffed Argentine Delegates Boycott League Of Nations

BY FLORA LEWIS

Geneva, April 8 (AP)—Argentina's delegates walked out today on the opening meeting of the League of Nations assembly's final session, called for the purpose of declaring officially dead the 26-year-old experiment in world idealism.

Argentina's gesture came after she failed to win any of the eight vice presidential posts. It was understood Argentina originally had been placed on the slate for the consideration by the nomination committee, and that the Argentines considered the matter one of great importance affecting their nation's prestige.

Delegates refused to say which of the nations had prevented the Argentine nomination. The nominations were made by secret ballot in closed session and Argentina was not mentioned on the floor. Canada, China, Britain, France, Mexico, Poland, Switzerland and Turkey won the eight posts.

The secretary-general's office circulated Gromyko's letter among the delegates late today and made public a translation which differed very little from the text broadcast last night by Moscow radio.

Some quarters expected either the Russians or Poland would offer a formal resolution to give the Iranian question priority. If such a move is made, informed quarters expected it to meet strong opposition from the countries who want more time to study the proposal.

4-H PROGRAM IS PRESENTED

Rotarians Enjoy Talks And Demonstrations By County Group

Delta county 4-H Club members and one of their leaders, Mrs. Zola Beauchamp of Rapid River, yesterday presented a program to the Escanaba Rotary club at its noon luncheon meeting at the Delta hotel. The program was directed by E. A. Wenner, county agricultural agent.

Delta county 4-H Club members present as guests of Rotary were Carol Larson of Rapid River, Joan Arvey of the Kipling school, and Beverly Johnson and Betty Gustafson of the Stone Anderson school. The young women were presented wearing frocks they had made as part of their clothing project work. Mrs. Beauchamp introduced the girls and explained the clothing project program.

Bob Makosky and Walter Johnson of Danforth, 4-H Club handicraft project members, presented a rope-making demonstration, and explained the steps in the process.

Supervisor Harold Gustafson of Ensign, who had arranged transportation for the 4-H Club group, also was a guest of the club.

Wenner told how 4-H clubs are organized and how they function. Enrollment in the 4-H program in the county is the highest in many years and totals nearly 500. Winter projects for the boys and girls include handicraft, clothing, good grooming, tractor, food preparation and junior leadership. At the recent Achievement Day held in Escanaba a total of 446 wood articles and 567 garments made by the boys and girls were on display.

Rev. Otto Steen, pastor of the First Methodist church, described the 4-H Club program as "helpful to the community and beneficial to the young people."

New Rotary Club members inducted yesterday were Dr. Russell Pluene, Dr. Thomas A. McInerney, and J. T. Sharpsteen.

Advise Boatmen On Registration Of Their Craft

As local yachtmen and fishermen prepare to launch their boats for the summer season on Green bay and Lake Michigan, the Coast Guard district office at Cleveland is advising them on pertinent facts in connection with the registration of their craft.

The Coast Guard directs the attention of the motor-boating public to the fact that registration numbers must be not less than three inches in height and must contrast with the color of the hull. Also, a change in ownership, loss, abandonment or destruction of a numbered boat must be reported to the Coast Guard within ten days.

Circulars outlining the numbering and equipment laws can be obtained by writing to the Commander, 9th Coast Guard District, Motorboat Registration Section, 1110 Keith Building, Cleveland 15, Ohio.

The Coast Guard also calls attention to the fact that amphibious "jeeps" and "ducks" when used on navigable waters of the United States by private parties are motorboats. Such vehicles clearly come within the definition of undocumented vessels and motorboats as defined by the Acts of June 7, 1918, as amended, and April 25, 1946. Being vessels operated in whole or in part by machinery on the navigable waters of the United States, they must be numbered and equipped as required by the law and regulations.

CANDIDATE — Maurice Pratt, 1224 North 21st street, yesterday filed his nomination petition to run for sheriff on the Democratic ticket in the June 18 primary election. Mr. Pratt, who is 33 years old, has been a resident of Delta county virtually his entire lifetime. For several years, he has been employed as a driver with the Lency Clairmont Transfer company. He is married and has two children.

DEATH CLAIMS ROY E. PARKER

Spalding Tavern Operator Succumbs To Long Illness

Roy Earl Parker, 56, of Spalding, died Sunday morning at 10:15 o'clock at St. Francis hospital. He had been in ill health for several years.

He was born March 10, 1890 in Wrentham, Texas. He came to Michigan in the early 1920's and operated a garage in Detroit until 1926, when he moved to Manistique. Mr. Parker operated a resort at Manistique until 1939, when he moved to Spalding to operate Parker's Inn.

The body was taken to the Alto funeral home in Escanaba and will lie in state there this afternoon from one to six o'clock. It will be shipped to Dallas, Texas this evening and funeral service will be held in Dallas.

He is survived by his wife, his mother, Mrs. Rosa Parker of Dallas; a brother, Dewey of Greenville, Texas; and the following sisters, all of Dallas: Mrs. Lily May Starling, Mrs. Ruth Compton, Mrs. Ora Wheeler, Miss Pauline Parker, and Miss Louise Parker.

Clayton S. Schram Elected President Of Checker Cab Co.

MORE VETERANS SEEKING JOBS

USES Registers Total Of 238 Ex-Servicemen During March

Of 3,630 individuals—including repeat callers—who took advantage of U. S. Employment facilities here last month, 2,564 were veterans, 238 of the latter making their initial visit to the office since their release from the armed forces.

A total of 130 persons, more than half of them ex-servicemen, were sent out by the office to discuss job opportunities which resulted in the hiring of 53, thirty of whom were veterans.

Returning veterans continue to be the chief source of male labor supply, as the above figures indicate; a large percentage of them are registering with the USES and the majority desire local employment.

Although many of both veteran and non-veteran job seekers are being absorbed by local industry, the current and anticipated job openings are far from adequate to take care of this supply of workers.

In order to provide ex-servicemen and other job seekers with complete information regarding work opportunities in the community, the local USES is expanding its employer contact program to include all employers, both large and small. Employers are urged to list their job openings with the USES, including the more desirable, as well as the less desirable and hard-to-fill jobs.

With the excess of available labor here it would appear that all job openings could be readily filled from the abundant supply, but in many instances workers do not fit the requirements of the job due to lack of experience, skill or training. It is also evident that some of the available workers will not accept employment offered in some cases because of working conditions, low wages, inadequate transportation and other considerations.

School Officials Will Meet Today

Problems relating to the purchase of surplus government property will be discussed at a meeting of school representatives of Delta, Schoolcraft, Menominee and Dickinson counties at the junior high school building today. The meeting will begin at 10 a. m.

Among the speakers will be Robert M. Winger, chief, division of surplus commodities; James MacConnell, department of vocational education, and a representative of the War Assets Corporation.

Spring, Plus Boys And Rifles, Cause Dangerous Period

Spring fever that sends juveniles armed with .22 caliber rifles may get their parents into trouble, and the conservation department wants it definitely known that its off-season gun permits authorize no indiscriminate shooting.

The department has been issuing gun permits at the rate of 500 a week since the first of the year, many of them to returned servicemen, for such legitimate purposes as target practice and the killing of crows and predators.

Small boys abroad after the winter's confinement have been guilty of shooting at telephone pole insulators, bottles tossed into the river, songbirds and even windows of vacant buildings. Few of them, roaming the countryside with gun and gun permit, realize that, just as in hunting season, they must be accompanied by parent or other qualified older person until they pass their seventeenth birthday. Laws against trespass affect them just as strongly as in hunting season, also.

Conservation officers who find unaccompanied juveniles using firearms in a way to alarm suburban residents may hold the guns until the parents are interviewed. Older offenders may be prosecuted for careless use of firearms.

Two Separate Issues

TO attain proper perspective of the current controversy regarding the draft situation, the public must accept as two separate issues the extension of the present Selective Service law and the president's proposal for universal peacetime military training. One deals with current military problems and the other with future military problems.

The present draft law expires May 15. Since the nation's present military requirements are the result of obligations that were developed as a result of the war, it is not at all inconsistent to argue for continuance of the present draft law until these obligations are met but to oppose a peacetime military conscription. Technically the war has not yet been officially terminated, even though the fighting has ceased.

Our military commitments abroad, plus the reasonable armed strength needed for national defense, require armed forces in excess of that attainable by volunteer enlistments. For that reason only, it is necessary to continue the draft law until our military requirements are met.

The problem of peacetime conscription, however, is another matter entirely. The maintenance of a huge draft army in peacetime as an established policy of the United States government is inconsistent with the traditional American viewpoint. Neither is there any evidence to support the claim that a mammoth standing army and universal military training is needed to guarantee the protection of our country in the future.

On the contrary, our military history has proved that it is far better to maintain the highest possible educational standards than it is to concentrate training along military lines. In this way we acquire an intelligent populace that can meet any emergency. Our army in the past war was the strongest in the world because it was the most intelligent. Incidentally, it was not the product of a policy of peacetime conscription.

Ballot for Teen-Agers

WE are inclined to agree with President Truman that the right to vote should be extended to the 18-year-olds.

There may be many protests against it, but there is no reason why they cannot be overridden just as the clamor against the drafting of teen-agers for military service was disregarded in wartime. The young men and women, 18 years of age and over, served their country well in the uniform on the battlefield and in the non-combat branches of the service.

If they were old enough to fight and risk their lives, most certainly they are old enough to vote. Many grownups do not appreciate the democratic right of the ballot, anyway, as is demonstrated by the large percentage of voters who stay away from the polls on election day. Oftentimes, the adults don't show much good sense in the election of public servants, and perhaps the teen-agers would do much better.

Petrillo Slapped

JAMES C. Petrillo, head of the American Federation of Musicians, got more than he bargained for when he used his dictatorial powers to put the kibosh on the radio concerts of student musicians at Camp Interlochen.

Petrillo's arbitrary attitude aroused the ire of Michigan's Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, who introduced legislation in Congress to curb the musicians' union. The bill provides severe penalties for the featherbed practices by which the union has extracted huge chunks of revenue from broadcasting stations.

Now, Petrillo is clamoring that the measure passed by Congress is outrageously unfair. But he asked for it. The pages of history are filled with stories of the abuse of power by one class bringing counter-measures that are equally or more excessive.

Petrillo's experience should be a lesson to other union leaders who allow their reason to run out of bounds.

Paper in Demand

ALTHOUGH the industry will produce about 18,000,000 tons of paper and paperboard, exclusive of newsprint, in 1946, the public's demand for paper products will not be satisfied.

Paper found many important military uses during the war, and its peacetime functions demand even greater production. Magazines and newspapers are anxious to expand, and the need for paperboard as containers will increase correspondingly with the rising output of civilian goods.

The paperboard industry is dependent upon the salvaging of waste paper. If collections of waste paper are insufficient to meet its needs, more pulpwood must be utilized for its purposes, which means a lesser amount available for newsprint and other types of paper.

Waste paper salvage is still necessary. Stacks of old magazines and newspapers have accumulated in basements and store-rooms during the winter. Housewives are advised not to throw the paper in the furnace at spring cleaning time. Save it for the next scrap drive or call a waste paper dealer.

Something New in Japan

THE demonstration by a mob of more than 10,000 in Japan Sunday against the leadership of Premier Shidehara, coupled with a demand for the end to the emperor system, is something new to Japan, which has regimented its people for many years.

The mob was Communist-inspired and like Communist uprisings in this and other countries, it was a bloody-thirsty gang. American military police checked the demonstrations when it got out of the hands of the Japanese gendarmes.

The Japanese uprising was closely allied with the general election campaign now under way there in preparation for Wednesday's election.

In acquiring new freedom, the Japanese people have not yet learned how to respect that freedom. That is one of the problems that they must meet, and it is the most important problem confronting the Japanese people today.

MERCEDES' COMMENTS on RESORTS (Marinette Eagle Star)

Rhineland resort owners and the Chamber of Commerce there have laid down a barrage of resentment against Joe Mercedes, executive director of the Heart of the Lakes Tourist Bureau, who was so audacious as to state that resorts in the Rhineland area are in a "pitiable state." He further stated that the community "lacks a first class resort and has failed to maintain, improve or expand its resorts for the past several years."

Mercedes indulged in other uncomplimentary remarks which so aroused a segment of business men that they have threatened to bring pressure to bear on the Rhineland city council when Mercedes next appears for an appropriation for his tourist promotion program.

Allowing for the fact that Mercedes may have overstated his case in a moment of piquancy, a cold analysis of the situation as it applies to much of the resort area in the northern part of the state fully supports his contentions. He has stated, in effect, that physical improvements to resorts in the northern section have not kept pace with the tourist and resort promotion efforts and that is a blunt truth. Though resort owners and others who take pride in their community resent his criticisms, it is just the shot in the arm that is needed.

The seriousness of the situation was pointed out a few months ago at Crivitz when George E. Bishop, secretary-manager of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau, addressed a group. Bishop, who is the dean of tourist promotion men in the country and spoke from more than two decades of experience, stressed the need for resorts having something to offer in the way of comforts. The day when the touring public will be satisfied with outdoor toilet facilities is past, he warned. The section of the country which offers the best services will command the biggest tourist business, he said, mindful of the fact that southern states, the New England group, and the far western states are competing against states of the Great Lakes area for the business of summer visitors.

A frank appraisal of the situation in Marinette county leaves much to be desired in the way of tourist and resort facilities. The parks, lakes, streams and recreation committee of the county board of supervisors, which directed publication of the Near North Tour Book that went to press this week fully realized this, but decided it might be better to put the cart before the horse, so to speak. It was felt that once the virtues of Marinette county as a recreation area were adequately publicized the inspiration for better resort and tourist facilities would develop.

At any rate, Marinette county has issued a vacation book that compares favorably with anything ever published in the state. It would not be surprising if it were commended as the best ever produced by any county or group of counties in Wisconsin.

WHAT IS THE ORIGIN?
(Scrapbook Item)

Q. Can there be any connection between a "board" (plank) and "to board," as at a boarding house?

A. Yes, it is the same word. The original word was the Anglo-Saxon word, "a plank." In Middle English the spelling became "board," and the word designated any thin, saved piece of wood. Next, by extension, board came to mean a thin, square sheet of wood used in playing games, as a checker board; hence, anything of a similar nature, as a blackboard or a small table for food; hence, the food served upon such a table; hence, meals collectively, as in "bed and board"; hence, to take one's meals at a boarding house.

Also, the idea of a board used as a table suggested the persons who sit around a table for discussion. Hence, a board of directors, a board of education, a board of health.

Now, the original Anglo-Saxon word also meant "the side of a ship, since a ship's sides were made of boards. Hence, the ex-

World Events Analyzed

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Hunter College, New York—The victory for collective security that has been won here is of the first importance. Defeat, in whatever form, would have had a paralyzing effect on the infant world organization which is struggling to live.

But the importance of the victory can be exaggerated. That is already happening. The U. N. has not arrived on a safe plateau where it can rest permanently.

The victory is a respite. The infant can be taken out of the oxygen tent to face the world again. Now must come the constructive steps for growth and development.

Now that the Iranian crisis has been safely weathered, it is apparent that the very fact that this first test came over a weak and primitive country may even have been an advantage. We can cherish no illusions that, with a technical victory, the future of Iran as a sovereign state is forever solved.

—RUSSIA WON'T QUIT—
To believe that the Soviet Union will abandon its objective is to fall by a wide margin to understand the Soviet Union. A Reuters dispatch from Teheran in the New York Post indicates that one demand in the course of the present Russian-Iranian negotiations is for 50 "pro-Russian" deputies to sit in the next Iranian parliament.

If that is true, you can readily see how things would move along such a course. On some not too distant day, there would be a majority of "pro-Russian" delegates in the Iranian parliament. Mass propaganda, infiltration and the judicious use of gold and military resources would have done their work. Iran would have a dictatorship of the left under the beneficent eye of her powerful neighbor.

Fortunately, just at this time, an expert who knows Iran as well as any outsider possibly could has come forward with a constructive analysis. A. C. Millsaugh is a political scientist who directed the finances of Iran from 1922 to 1927, and again from 1943 through 1945. The statement he has issued through the Brookings Institution deserves the most earnest attention of the U. N. security council.

From his long background of knowledge, Millsaugh pictures Iran as almost totally disorganized, with an incompetent and unrepresentative government made up of the long corrupt oligarchy that has dominated the country for so long. Conditions today are apparently worse than ever before. Although Millsaugh did not say so, the situation is made to order for the Soviets.

As a solution, Millsaugh proposes that Britain, the Soviet Union and the United States establish a "guardianship" over Iran for a long period. Under such a guardianship, the struggle for Iran's oil could be arbitrated. But, far more important, the Iranian people could be guided in the direction of economic and social progress.

Those who cling to the concepts of the past will immediately, of course, raise that bogey word sovereignty. This solution would be a violation of Iran's sovereignty.

—THERE IS WAY OUT—
What a quaint fiction! The old Gods on Mt. Olympus must shake with earthquake-making laughter at this head-in-the-sand folly. Sovereignty itself is a fiction in the age of atomic fission and super-sonic planes. But the fiction that the sovereignty of Iran equals the sovereignty of the USA or the USSR is a fable out of a past that has utterly disappeared.

Even within the framework of sovereignty, however, there is a way out. Sovereign Iran could invite the three powers to form such a guardianship. Sovereign Iran had better move quickly or that last transparent veil of sovereignty will be rudely jerked away.

Is the Millsaugh proposal merely a piece of quixotic idealism? One answer is that Russia would never join in such a move, since Russia has so far declined to join in any of the constructive, creative features of the U. N.

That might prove to be true. Nevertheless, it is not enough of an answer. If Iran were to make such a request and Britain and this country were to agree, it would be a lot harder for the Soviet Union to say so. To say no would be a confession that Russia had other intentions.

Now that a technical victory has been won here in the United Nations forum, the only hope lies in some such move. And it must come quickly.

pressions to go on board, to go overboard, to board a ship; hence, the edge or side of anything, as a seaboard, the border of a country, or of a piece of cloth (are you still with me?). English is like that.

Q. Where in the world did your assistant, Dr. Etaoin Shrdlu, get his outlandish name? Is it Czech, or Rumanian? And by the way, don't ever discharge the good doctor—He's indispensable!

A. He is, indeed. You should see him report for duty every morning. He strides into my study, stands glaring at me for a full half-minute snorts a tremendous Humph! of derision and galumphs off to his own book-bound cubi-culum. How he manages it I do not know, but he always snorts at me in Latin—it sounds exactly like, "Humph-phib!"

As to his name: now it can be told. My new pamphlet, "Life and Deeds of Dr. Shrdlu," is now ready for free distribution. It not only tells the life story of the incredible old scholar, it also traces the remarkable name, Etaoin Shrdlu, back through the years to its first beginning. For a free copy of DR. SHRDLU'S Pamphlet, including his picture, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Frank Colby, in care of this paper.

Good Morning!

By The Bugler

YOU MUST TRY IT!—If you haven't gone smelt fishing so far this spring, you must try it. At least that is the advice that was given us a few days ago and we did try it over the weekend.

All that you need for a successful smelt dipping trip is a strong inclination and back, a dip net with a handle one block long, one river—and some smelt. Oh yes. Don't forget to take along a fishing license. We saw no conservation officers, but you never can tell.

It was a beautiful night. All smelt dipping stories start like that, we understand. Well, it was a beautiful night. It was a very beautiful night. It was one of the most beautiful nights we ever saw. Perhaps it should be described in detail. There were stars, a moon, various and assorted Northern Lights, one milky way, and a lot of dark places in between the luminous bodies of the sky.

—ALSO PEOPLE—There were also various and assorted people along the bank of the Escanaba river near Wells. The people were gay and lighthearted. Or at least the screams and yells and laughter would have you believe they were happy. They seemed to be happy over something they called a smelt. There were approximately 400 people. Somebody caught one smelt. It caused a great deal of excitement. One smelt weighs about three ounces, live weight.

The people were dipping smelt—no they were dipping the smelt in the water. The net did not hold water. The net did not hold smelt, either. Because of the pushing and shoving on the bank of the river you could not tell whether it was a smelt net, or Junior who was being dunked in the water. If the swishing sound is repeated a number of times you can be sure it is a net. People go home after they fall in twice.

—ALL IS DARKNESS—It was a beautiful night—and dark. Here and there along the bank of the river there was the glow of fires where folks pretended they were getting warm, but all they really got was a good smoking.

We went down to the river bank with the smelt net and stepped in the water up to our left knee. Chagrined for a moment, we recovered our composure when we found that most people were stepping in much deeper. They did not have boots on, either.

Do not wear rubber boots when going out to dip smelt, even though so urged by your best friend. All of the people we saw with rubber boots—some were the hip variety—were out beyond their boot depth. A rubber boot is an invitation to disaster. You take one step too many every time.

—HOW IT'S DONE—After getting your feet wet it is a simple matter to dip smelt. Best stance to assume in swinging the smelt dip net is with the left foot slightly advanced toward the edge of the cold and rushing tide. This foot may either be placed on a slippery rock or a slippery log, although it does not really matter, because your foot will slip on either.

Now place the right foot slightly behind you and at a higher elevation than the left. This will Rome—Premier Mussolini declared today that only "total annihilation" of Ethiopian forces would satisfy Fascist colonial security as Italy counted her war dead from the African campaign.

Milwaukee—Socialist Daniel Hoan was mayor for another four year term today, free to further his campaign to "keep Milwaukee famous" but devoid of power to put a socialistic program through the city council.

John Mitchell, well known Escanaba yachting enthusiast, has closed a deal for the purchase of the Oslo, a 36-foot Marconi racing sloop. The Oslo was originally built for Prince Olaf of Norway and brought to the United States in 1925 to be raced in the six-meter class.

The class that will graduate this year at Escanaba high school will be the largest on record, being made up of 126 students.

Miss Effie M. Griffith, for many years head of the English department at the Escanaba high school, will sail on June 19 for Europe, where she will spend the summer touring. In the autumn she will take a position as teacher of English in one of the prominent English schools in Paris.

Leslie French Jr. has arrived from Ann Arbor to attend the wedding of his sister.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Benson are the parents of a son, born March 31, at the family home, 622 Stephenson avenue.

Lansing—Governor Griesbeck today replied to the recent charge of the highway committee of the state administrative board that state funds are so heavily encumbered no new road contracts can be awarded this year. Instead of the deficit claimed by the committee the highway fund owes practically nothing, has about $1,500,000 on hand and on June 30 will have approximately $5,250,000 available, the governor claimed.

give you a cramped position, which can be felt in your leg muscles for several days afterward.

Grasp the extreme end of the dip net pole, hold the net out over the water and lean forward. If you do not fall in, you can begin dipping.

—IT'S BOTTOMLESS—It is our intention to telegraph Congressman Fred Bradley and have him send a government survey party to make soundings of the lower Escanaba river. The river apparently is bottomless at several places where we dipped smelt. It is certainly deeper than one 12-foot smelt dip net pole and a right arm.

Veteran smelt dippers (veterans are the ones who stay dry) told us that the smelt are on the bottom and the dip net must scrape on the bottom to trap them. For that reason we tried to reach bottom.

To come close to the bottom it is necessary to push the pole down its full length and a little more, depending on how far you want to go. Being of the reckless type we went the limit.

who wandered midst snow and ice, yelling "Excelsior!" at the end of each stanza? Even when he was found frozen dead as a herring in an Alpine pass they wondered what the devil it was all about when they found him clutching a flag staff—"Excelsior!" Well, we know, now. He was looking for a dip net pole to fish smelt on the Escanaba river. And "Eureka!" There's another word. We never knew what that meant either, until we finally caught a smelt. Laboriously bringing the dip net out of the depths, we held it up to see if we had caught anything. The water from the net and the pole ran down our sleeves. Our right foot slipped. But there was something wiggling in the net—a smelt! Tenderly we placed its three-inch, one-ounce body in our bushel basket. What does "Eureka!" mean? Some people call it "Bin-go!"

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

Washington.—After the last war, we let our best officers leave the army, we content to make the army a refuge for hundreds of misfits who couldn't adjust themselves in other walks of life, and settled down to complete complacency regarding the armed forces.

Usually history repeats itself. After this war, however, there is a little less complacency regarding the future—thanks to Russia. But there is almost as much do-nothingness regarding the internal organization of the army.

President Truman has now demanded that we have a big peacetime conscript army. But aside from Secretary of War Patterson's healthy board for probing case, no steps have been taken to reorganize the army's long out-dated system of promotions, its methods of selecting officers, and, perhaps, most important of all, its system of eliminating misfits.

A thorough re-organization of the army might make it more enticing to good men and thereby eliminate conscription. Even Senator Chan Gurney of South Dakota, most ardent conscription enthusiast, will admit that a volunteer army is more efficient than one composed of men who are forced to serve.

—ARMY WEAK SPOTS—
In view of President Truman's Army Day speech, therefore, here are some inefficiencies which worry the best men in the army and which Secretary Patterson's caste system board, as well as other war department agencies, could well afford to scrutinize.

1. There are no efficient personnel records in Washington. The adjutant general could tell you in 1944 which officers had worked as bricklayers before the war, but could not tell you who had been overseas. For instance, one officer who speaks three languages and is an expert at military intelligence was listed as a "tank commander" despite the fact that he has been crippled since 1942.

2. There is no system of eliminating inefficient officers. During the war they were sometimes relegated to the ground forces inspection teams under General McNair, or assigned to any general who requested them, where they were quickly promoted and sometimes got into important jobs—though totally unqualified. They knew the right people.

3. The army's system of promotion is totally inadequate. In peacetime it is based on seniority, which means that no matter how inefficient, if you keep in good health and don't offend your superiors, you will be promoted. This puts no premium on initiative, brains or ability. Just the opposite. Prevailing sentiment among regular army officers is "live and let live," "why not get mine while the getting is easy," or "I know him when."

4. The weakness of certain regular officers probably resulted in more GI gripes than anything else. Some regulars were determined to cash in on the power and money suddenly laid at their feet. Some were unconscious of the rights of the common man. Some, blinded by sudden authority, covered their inefficiency by building an empire in which to hide.

They hurt their fellow-officers who were doing a good job. Also hurt the entire army. Incidentally, the great majority of younger officers (those with the rank of major and below) thoroughly sympathized with GI complaints against the caste system.

—LIQUOR FOR OFFICERS ONLY—

GIs especially boiled over against the caste system when it came to drinking. Troops on Ascension island were furious when their Christmas mail was dumped off a plane at Natal, Brazil, to make space for 1,000 pounds of whiskey ordered by a general. . . . just before Christmas also, a C-47 took off from Charleston, S. C., for Cuba to bring back a cargo of whiskey and nylons for officers and officers' wives only. . . . young officers bitterly resented having to fly from Guam to Hawaii to pick up a load of Christmas whiskey for Gen. James E. Parker. They thought they had enlisted for more important work. . . . Gen. A. D. Smith, commander at the Azores, even sent a plane all the way to Newfoundland for whiskey. It was consumed by staff officers only. Junior officers and GIs got none.

The same General Smith had a system whereby each Saturday a C-47 carried him from the Santa Maria, Azores, base to Terceira for a hot bath, 150 miles away. The operation was dangerous because the only runway was temporary and the plane often had to land in a 40 to 50-mile cross-wind. . . . others stayed at Santa Maria and bathed in the ocean. . . . for Christmas, 1944, General Smith flew to California, though only two weeks before his troop commander had refused to let a soldier go home when his sister died. . . . while building the base at Santa Maria, General Smith detailed two skilled cabinet makers to build a desk and table for his office. They spent two months at this job; probable cost $5,000.

We're glad to see electric alarm clocks back in the show cases again. It will help a lot if more Americans wake up!

An advance tip: Letting the grass grow under your feet just means mower trouble. Here's looking forward to the time when sweet smelling spring flowers are up to snuff.

If you're willing to admit you're all wrong when you are, you're all right.

When last summer's hat is taken out of the closet, a lot of men are going to gasp at a straw.

OPEN CIRCUIT COURT SESSION

Calendar Is Reviewed; Jury Will Report Wednesday a. m.

The April term of circuit court for Delta county opened yesterday at the courthouse in Escanaba with Judge Frank A. Bell of Ne-gaunee presiding. The day was largely devoted to a review of cases on the calendar, and will continue today at the courthouse, despite the conflicting use of the court chambers by the Delta county board of supervisors.

Court will convene at 9 a. m. today and will continue until the board meets, and perhaps for the rest of the day if use of other chambers is possible.

The jury for the April term is not scheduled to report for duty until tomorrow morning.

Two pleas of guilty were entered yesterday. They are: Well-ington L. L. L. of Escanaba, charged with non-support, third offense; and Ronald W. Moras of Escanaba, charged with burglary. Judge Bell will pronounce sen-tence near the end of the term.

Two 16-year-old youths, Donald Mackie of Kipling and Robert Willis of Gladstone, are to be arraigned before Judge Bell this morning charged with unlawfully driving away an automobile, and with breaking and entering the John Strand store at Kipling. Juvenile Judge William J. Miller yesterday waived jurisdiction in their cases. They were arraigned before Justice Henry Ranguette on the charges and were bound over to circuit court for trial.

Set for Trial

Cases are scheduled for trial at this term in the following order:

Carl Nyberg, an appeal from a conviction in justice court on a headlighting charge; Napoleon Viau, same charge; Gerald Mad-den, same charge. A motion by defense counsel to suppress evi-dence in all three cases will be heard. The fourth game law vi-o-lation case, Jens Wheaton, re-spondent, was continued to the next jury term of court.

Last trial scheduled is that of Charles Johnston of Escanaba, described by officers as the prop-rietor of the Chuckle Club, who is charged with violation of the liquor law.

A charge against Lowell Thi-bault of Rapid River, Route One, of taking liberties with a minor yesterday was dismissed by the court following a defense motion to quash the complaint.

Two cases were nolle proceed and the charges dismissed. They were those of John E. Martin, charged with the theft of a car, who was extradited to Oregon to face a more serious charge; and James Froberg of Escanaba, who was charged with car theft and is now returned to the service of the U. S. Army.

The case of Fred C. Homer of Escanaba, charged with drunk driving, was continued; as was also the case of William Wilson of Ensign, charged with statutory rape.

Nine Divorce Hearings

Nine divorce actions were sched-ed for hearing; two were continued; one was set for trial; and one was dismissed. One separate main-tenance suit was dismissed, another continued.

An action to obtain a bill for specific performance, J. Theodore Ohlen vs. Escanaba National Bank. Phil Hupy and Marguerite John-son, was dismissed on motion of defense counsel.

The suit of Beatrice Bink, ad-ministratrix of the estate of Billie B. Bink, vs. Nicholas Bink, ad-ministrator of the estate of Wil-liam J. Bink, and the Coco Cola Bottling company, to obtain a bill for an accounting, was scheduled for trial.

One jury civil case, Warren T. Bron vs. William C. Johnson, tres-pass on the case, was continued.

Non-jury civil cases scheduled for trial were those of Frank Meyers vs. Michael Novak, tres-pass on the case; Lloyd Sodergren and Standard Fire Insurance Co. vs. Joseph Couchene, trespass on the case; H. J. Norton vs. L. L. Howard.

The case of William Rodgers, Nahma commercial fisherman, vs. Conservation Officers Allen Tweedy and Raymond Roberts, was continued. That of Rodgers vs. D. H. Raess, former Escanaba district conservation supervisor, an appeal from justice court; and James Krutina, commercial fisher-man, vs. John A. Anguilm, present district conservation supervisor, were passed.

Passed also was the non-jury civil case of Jacob B. Casper, ad-ministrator of the estate of Kol-man Casper, vs. Doris Ralph; while the matter of an appeal from probate court by Ernest J. Seder-lund, Rose Anderson, Vernice Herscheid and Lillian Groos was continued.

However, it is unnecessary in the case of letters for residents of Berlin.

Communications addressed to "General Delivery" will not be accepted.

THE PACE OF PROGRESS

★ With almost methodical regularity we hear or read of startling new discoveries in medicine. The pace of progress in research has been greatly accelerated. Hundreds of trained people are devoting their lives to organized research where there was but one a few years ago. As soon as the value of a new drug has been established, it is made available to the medical profession. A chronic condition from which you have been suffering may yield to a new treatment today. It is wiser than ever before to see your physician regularly once or twice a year. We take pride in maintaining complete stocks of the newer medicinal agents, ready to serve you on the order of your physician.

A business meeting, installation of officers, and discussion groups were included in the afternoon program. In the evening, 175 guests attended to supper, which was served by mothers of the Escanaba youth group, in Westminster Hall.

Following the dinner, the members attended the Sunday evening service at the host church, at which the Rev. James H. Bell was the speaker.

Out of town pastors who attended the rally, and who spoke at the afternoon meetings, were the Rev. William Harvey, Manistiquie; the Rev. David Buzza of Menominee; and the Rev. N. U. McConaughy of Iron Mountain.

Mr. Clarke, former advertising manager of the Escanaba Daily Press, is well known here. Since leaving this city a few years ago, he has held a position with an advertising company in Minneapolis.

Well Known Couple
Married 40 Years

Mr. and Mrs. John McKeever, 431 South Twelfth street, well-known Escanaba couple, observed their 40th wedding anniversary on Saturday.

Sixteen guests gathered at their home in the evening for a dinner in observance of the occasion. Lighted tapers and fresh spring flowers decorated the table, which was centered by a large tiered wedding cake.

Mr. and Mrs. McKeever were married in Escanaba in 1906, and have made their home here since that time. They have one daughter, Miss Clarice McKeever of Mackinac Island, who was here to attend her parents' anniversary.

Mr. McKeever is employed as an engineer for the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad.

Mrs. Charles Zirnelt and baby daughter arriving from Milwaukee to visit relatives and friends. Mrs. Zirnelt before her marriage was Camella Bonifas daughter of Mr. Isadore Bonifas.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Gouin's infant son was dismissed from St. Francis Hospital where he has been treated for phenomonia.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Wester, Miss Signe Lungren and Mrs. George Beveridge were shoppers in Manistiquie Friday.

Mrs. Edd Lindstrom is ill at her home and under the Doctor's care.

A new housing plan for veterans provides them with temporary shelter on the very grounds on which a new home is being built. Through clever design, the first unit of construction is a small 2½-room dwelling which will later be incorporated into the finished house as a garage. Additional cost for this arrangement is small, since all fixtures such as kitchen equipment, plumbing, etc., will eventually be transferred to the completed home.

Norway's Royalty
Learns Three R's

BY VEGARD VIGERUST
AP Newsfeatures
Oslo—Norway's Prince Harald recently celebrated his ninth birthday—by working hard at school.

The prince, who with his mother, Crown Princess Martha and sisters, the Princesses Astrid and Ragnhild, spent the war years near Bethesda, Md., sits at a plain wooden desk and learns his lessons together with boys of the same age at suburban Stensrud, near Oslo. He gets no favors from the instructors and if he fails to learn his lessons he is liable to school discipline as the other students are. He has, however, become a hero in the schoolyard by virtue of his athletic abilities and his strength.

His father, Crown Prince Olav, has emphasized the boy be treated on equal terms with the other students and such days as birthdays are not, in his father's opinion, to be an excuse for a holiday. Incidentally, Prince Harald wished for an American jeep as a birthday present, but it was not granted him.

His sisters attend the Nissen Ladies' school in Oslo. They have won the respect and love of students and instructors alike for their unassuming ways.

The sisters dress in the careless fashion of American high school girls and mingle freely with their classmates in the schoolyard. The girls are good at composition but Princess Ragnhild, 16, says she has trouble replying to a theme like this: "When I went out shopping with my mother."

"We can't go out shopping, you see. As soon as we slip outside, all people make a hubbub about it!"

Room to stretch your legs
in Milwaukee Road Coaches

IT'S HARD TO BEAT a Milwaukee Road train for all-around comfort and satisfaction. Consider, for example, just a few of the many conveniences and advantages of travel in Hiawatha-type coaches.

Room to move around—Your ticket buys not just a deep-seated reclining chair, but a big, roomy car—or a whole train—to stroll through. You get comfortable lounges; clean, well-equipped wash rooms.

Smooth comfort—Modern train design and a seasoned, well-ballasted road-bed assure maximum riding comfort and restful silence.

Scenic charm—Wide windows beside your seat not only give you an unobstructed view, but provide an intimate close-up of the rivers and lakes, forests and towns along the route.

Weatherproof reliability—Stormy "fronts" of changing weather hold no discomfort; fog doesn't delay; slippery pavements are not a hazard. You get there on time on The Milwaukee Road.

Speed with economy—You travel at high speeds and, in large cities, you arrive and depart from downtown stations. Yet, even with these time-saving features, rail travel is thrifty. Round trip coach fares of less than two cents a mile put a low cost on luxury.

We're still busy carrying veterans home, but congestion is lessening. There'll be room for you on Milwaukee Road trains.

Judge Runnells Excuses Jurors Before They Are Summoned

With the order by Circuit Judge Herbert W. Runnells that jurors drawn for the April term of Schoolcraft county court be excused from service and the continuance of all but one of the criminal cases docketed, little remains of the calendar that for a few days gave promise of a bit more glamor than that which has featured the terms of the recent past.

The only criminal case to be considered at this time is that of the People vs. Edgar Robare in which the defendant, convicted more than twenty years ago for the murder of Buford Norberg, is asking leave of the court to file motion for a new trial. Robare is represented by Kurt J. Kremlick, a Detroit attorney. Judge Runnells set 11 o'clock this morning as time for hearing on the plea.

Cases of Charles A. and Ralph G. Davison, charged with larceny were continued in that the defendants are now in the Marquette penitentiary serving time for breaking and entering, and trial on these other matters was not pressing at this time.

The civil case, National Net and Twine Company vs. Jack Anthony will probably be heard Tuesday afternoon.

Two trespass cases were settled and one action in chancery court will be heard unless settled out of court tomorrow, which attorneys intimidated might reasonably happen.

The Orpheus Choral club of Escanaba is generally recognized as the premier musical organization in the Upper Peninsula and the music provided by these talented men and women is of the sort that has general appeal. For that reason it is more than likely that this is the highest class of entertainment to appear in Manistique this year.

The concert will be held at the high school auditorium and will begin at 8:15 o'clock.

Brothers Who Had Gone Fishing

Fears for the safety of Andy Gause, 17, and his brother, Matt, 28, of Days River who had gone fishing Sunday afternoon on Little Bay de Noquet in an outboard motor boat and who failed to return that evening were allayed yesterday morning when the men returned home.

However, it was not until after conservation officers and state police had been notified yesterday morning that the men were missing and a search was being organized that the men returned.

They told officers they had sheered a propeller pin in the outboard and had put up at Rapid River for the night, repairing the motor and returning home as soon as possible Monday morning.

MAJORS UNLOAD EX-GI PLAYERS

Almost 100 Erased From League Rosters In Spring Training

BY JACK HAND

New York, April 8 (AP)—Overlooked in the hullabaloo about the Mexican league is the orderly procedure by which the major league have unloaded almost 100 ex-GI's since spring training started.

It's about half and half between the outright releases and the options to the minors with three of the athletes making other big time connections. One other, Murray Franklin of Detroit, chose the Mexican league.

Most of the big name athletes who went marching off to war remain on the big league lists but such familiar box scores figures as Chubby Dean, Rip Radcliff and Bruce Campbell are among the missing.

Brooklyn couldn't get waivers on Shortstop Claude Corbett so Cincinnati picked up a talented infielder for the $7,500 waiver price. It was the same story with the Reds when they tried to get Infielder Van Harrington out of the big show. The Chicago White Sox were interested and took a chance for $7,500.

It would be most interesting to see the waiver lists that have been passing through Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler's office for the past month or ever since the ex-GI's 30-day trial period ran out. There is no question but that the lists have been the longest in the history of the game.

Ever since the Hank Borowy deal of last year, when the New York Yankee ace was "mysteriously" waived out of the American league and sold to Chicago, club owners have been scanning the lists with vigilance. Even so, a sleeper gets through now and then.

The old game of withdrawing waivers when some club shows interest in the player has been pulled in many instances. A good example is the Anse Moore case. Detroit wanted to shunt the 28-year-old southerner to Buffalo but the Chicago White Sox wouldn't let him go. As a result the Tigers withdrew his name and announced Moore would remain on Steve O'Neill's roster.

Benny McCoy probably is the outstanding ex-serviceman who drew an outright release. Connie Mack paid Benny $45,000 for signing with Philadelphia in 1940 after the late Commissioner K. M. Landis declared him a free agent. McCoy has been in the Navy since 1941 and failed to make the grade as Mack's second sacker at the

Hawaii Team Gives Spark To National AAU Boxing Meet

BY BILL KING

Boston, April 8 (AP)—Splashed with all its pre-war class and color, the 58th National AAU boxing championship tournament, with a field of 180 from all parts of the country, opened at breakneck speed today by rushing through more than 40 bouts in the first six hours.

Much of the tourney's sparkle was supplied by the 12-man Hawaii team, back in this three-day competition for the first time since 1940. During the early stages, eight of the islanders went into action and four returned victors.

One of the most impressive of the lei-draped glovesmen was Teuneshi Naro'u, belated member of the 442nd Japanese American battalion of Italian campaign fame, who launched a determined bid for the 118-pound class honors with a clear-cut decision over Herb Patzer of Portland, Ore., in his opening ring bout.

Other bantamweights who drew the undivided attention of ringsiders were Keith Hamilton of New Orleans, last year's national 112-pound titlist, and Charlie Pebeahay, the full-blooded Oklahoma City Indian who was runner-up in the 118-pound division two years ago.

LOCAL BOXERS WIN SIX BOUTS

Manistique Fighters Get Nine Decisions On Inter-City Card

Manistique—Johnny Haindl, of Manistique, formerly of Cooks, Golden Gloves favorite of former years, staged a whirlwind comeback to win a decision in the grand finale of the Manistique boxing show here Monday night. He won a clear-cut decision over Jimmy Hubbard, of the Soo, the Upper Peninsula welterweight champion of this year's Golden Glover tournament.

Manistique leather pushers took the lion's share of the wins last night, copping six out of nine of the inter-city matches with Escanaba.

Among the bouts which scored the biggest hit with Manistique fans was the decision won by Pinky Weber, of Manistique, over Ray Sabuco, of Escanaba. It was a reversal of the close decision that went to Sabuco at the Golden Gloves tournament when the two scrappers first met.

The fastest, bloodiest and most evenly matched event of the evening was that between Don Dougherty, of Manistique, and Harry Lancour, of Flat Rock. It was a giv and take every second of the three rounds.

There was one technical knockout: Keith Slack, of Manistique, won in the third round over badly beating Harvey Goodnough, of Escanaba.

Following are the decisions in the other bouts:

Wayne Anderson over Clifford Weber, both of Manistique.

Bob Provo, Escanaba, over Cliff Johnson, Manistique.

Willard Anderson, Manistique, over John Stropich, Escanaba.

Bill Harris over Joe Bosanec, both of Manistique.

Jim Piche, Escanaba, over Bill Edwards, Manistique.

Joe Lequin, Escanaba, over John Quick, Manistique.

Keith Slack, Manistique, over Harvey Goodnough, Escanaba.

Don Dougherty, Manistique, over Harry Lancour, Escanaba.

Pinky Weber, Manistique, over Ray Sabuco, Escanaba.

Robert Barnes, Manistique, over Howard Boudreau, Escanaba.

Johnny Haindl, Manistique, over Jimmy Hubbard, Soo.

The Ray Goodnough and Orville VanEffen match was declared no decision at the end of the third round.

Ernest Pelon and Mickey Belanger, a couple of scrappy eight-year-olds, fought a fast three-round draw.

Buck Jackson, of Manistique, was referee of all the bouts.

A capacity crowd filled the junior high school gym to witness the matches.

Tom Swifts and Oberg's, highest scoring city league teams, will fight it out tonight at the junior high school gym for the city basketball.

Oberg's defeated Bark River in one semi-final round game of the city tournament last week and Swifts won easily from Mike's Bar.

The title clash will begin at 7:45; there will be a small admission fee.

Dude Ranguette will officiate. Both the play-off tonight and the season's league play has been under the direction of the city recreation department.

The Sports Parade

By Ken Gunderman

It was all milk and honey at the organization meeting of the Upper Peninsula Softball association here Sunday afternoon. Everyone was in a cooperative mood, eager to get along with the task of welding a strong home-grown organization to control softball activities in the upper peninsula. Discussions were confined to procedural matters and interpretations of the constitution and by-laws. Communities represented at the meeting included Gladstone, Menominee, Munising, Marquette, Negaunee, Iron Mountain and Escanaba. In addition Iron River sent its endorsement of the association and a belated telegram was received yesterday from the Norrie Sports association of Ironwood supporting the new association.

Now that softball has been launched towards what most leaders believe will be its most successful season in local history, sports enthusiasts can turn their attention to the baseball problem in Escanaba. Escanaba has secured a franchise in the Northern Wisconsin Michigan league, thereby acquiring a grand opportunity to give the national game its biggest push here in many years.

Johnny Schwalbach, who secured the franchise at Iron Mountain a week ago, cannot do the baseball promotion job alone. It requires the generous cooperation of many people, particularly the baseball fans and players.

The first step towards developing a good baseball club in Escanaba will be taken tonight at a meeting to be held at the recreation center at 7:15 o'clock. All men interested in playing with the local club are especially urged to be in attendance but fans, too, are generously welcomed. Many problems will be thrashed out at this meeting and plans developed to begin regular practice sessions. The team will play its first league game with Channing here on May 5. For several years sports fans have been crying for a return to baseball in Escanaba. This is it.

The prospects for a tremendous spread of baseball enthusiasm in Escanaba were never brighter. The Escanaba high school will produce its first inter-scholastic team in history. The junior league baseball, carefully nourished during the war years, is well anchored and will certainly enjoy its most successful season this summer. And now Escanaba will field a team in the peninsula's outstanding circuit, the NWM league. These factors, plus the availability of a new, modern baseball park provide the means for a baseball renaissance.

Local baseball leaders are confident that Escanaba can field a strong team in the NWM league. In addition to all the veteran ball players who have been active in the game here for a number of years, there are a promising lot of newcomers, fellows who came up through the junior ranks. Then there are war-borne ball players, who took up the sport in military camps. No one can really tell what the prospects are until the boys get out on the field and show their stuff. The pitching possibilities are at least par, probably better.

The pitching possibilities are at least par, probably better.

Local baseball leaders are confident that Escanaba can field a strong team in the NWM league. In addition to all the veteran ball players who have been active in the game here for a number of years, there are a promising lot of newcomers, fellows who came up through the junior ranks. Then there are war-borne ball players, who took up the sport in military camps. No one can really tell what the prospects are until the boys get out on the field and show their stuff. The pitching possibilities are at least par, probably better.

BASEBALL MEN MEET TONIGHT

Players And Fans Asked To Report At Recreation Center

All baseball players and fans interested in the organization of the Escanaba entry in the Northern Wisconsin Michigan baseball league are invited to attend a meeting this evening at 7:15 o'clock at the city recreation center, South 14th street.

John Schwalbach, who secured the Escanaba franchise in the NWM league, will be in charge of the session and has emphasized that a large attendance is desired in order to properly appraise the baseball prospects for the approaching season.

Many problems must be worked out at this meeting, but particular attention will be given to a study of prospective strength of the Escanaba ball club. Arrangements also will be made for early practice sessions as the local team will play its first league game here May 5, with Channing.

Escanaba has not had a so-called city baseball team here for several years, but there is considerable baseball interest in the community and apparently plenty of talent for a strong club.

AR PRISONER CAMPS CLOSE

labor Valued At Nine Million Performed In 3 States

During the 15 months German prisoners of war worked for both private contractors and government installations in Illinois, Wisconsin and Michigan, they performed labor valued at almost $900,000, it was announced by Gen. John T. Pierce, Commanding General of Fort Sheridan.

The official closing of all branch camps on April 6 was also announced, marking an end to the month period Fort Sheridan supervised this project which earned for the United States Treasury $8,894,795.22. The work for private contractors at the prevailing civilian wage amounts $5,107,795.46, while labor performed for military installations valued at $3,687,000.

The monthly report of prisoner war activities shows that $279,068 was earned by the nine camps that remained during March. Civilian contractors paid a government $29,860.88 while work done at military installations valued $250,000. This labor as performed by the 2,400 prisoners that remained. This number has been reduced and will be still by the end of April only 300 prisoners will be left in this area. These prisoners will do work in connection with Separation Center activities at Fort Sheridan for the time being.

Prisoner of war labor reached high last August when nearly 5,000 prisoners of war were working in over 25 communities out of 48 branch camps. Of these camps only nine were in operation during March and were closed. These camps are: Pori, Au Train, Sidaw and Evelyn in Michigan; Pine, Vaughan and Arlington in Illinois; and Billy Mitchell Field and Sturgeon Bay in Wisconsin.

During the fifteen month period, the camps in the Upper Peninsula of Michigan did work valued at $715,858.22. Of this total, $20,139.11 was earned during March. There were originally five camps in this section but Camp Raco was closed last August. Prisoners working in these camps cut wood pulp, chemical wood, ties and posts.

Adm. David Farragut of Civil War fame was the first man to attain that rank in American naval history.

The Rialto, principal bridge of Venice, was built of marble in 1590 at a cost of more than $500,000.

Smelt Dipping, Garden Perch Run In Spotlight

The perch run at Garden bay, and the spring smelt dipping season has been under way for several days, it appears to have hit the peak over the weekend and perhaps will continue in full volume for a week or more.

It was reported yesterday from the Hansen & Jensen Fish Market in Escanaba that a total of two tons of smelt were dipped from local streams over the weekend. Most of these came from the Escanaba, Days and Tacos rivers. Art Jensen of the Hansen & Jensen company said that catches were reported elsewhere on the upper Great Lakes.

Besides the two tons sold at 12 cents per pound (the price has declined three cents in the past few days), there were additional hundreds of pounds caught for home consumption.

Everett Warren, of Roscommon, photographer of the Michigan conservation department, took pictures of the smelt run on the Days river last night.

Vaccination For Smallpox Urged

"Every person who has not been successfully vaccinated for smallpox in the past five years should see his physician immediately for this protection." This warning is issued to Michigan citizens by the state health commissioner, Dr. William DeKleine, following notification from the U. S. Public Health Service that the west coast has an outbreak of smallpox introduced from the Orient.

Dr. DeKleine stated that the west coast outbreak is apparently a more deadly form of the disease than Michigan has known since the 1924 epidemic of hemorrhagic smallpox.

"Except for a few areas where

One Speeder, Two Reckless Drivers Fined Here Monday

Two reckless drivers and a speeder, arrested by city police and sheriff's department officers during the weekend, paid fines and court costs Monday after pleading guilty to the charges, when arraigned before Justice of the Peace Henry E. Ranguette.

Mrs. Hannah Enshaw, 51, of Escanaba, Route One, was arrested on a fine of $25 and costs for reckless driving. She was arrested on Lake Shore Drive Saturday night by Emil Johnson of the sheriff's department.

A. J. Harvey, 923 Sixth avenue south, paid a fine of $50 and costs on a similar charge. City police officers arrested Harvey Saturday night following a minor collision in the 300 block of Stephenson avenue in which cars driven by Irving R. Pettit, 811 Minnesota avenue, Gladstone, and David Alperovitz, 207 Ludington street, were slightly damaged. No one was injured.

A taxicab driver, Robert Gerou, 22, of 1517 Ludington street, arrested by city police officers for speeding, also on Saturday night, paid a fine of $15 and costs. Gerou, according to the police report, was driving 50 miles an hour on Tenth street at Lake Shore Drive.

health officers have continually emphasized vaccination, Michigan is vulnerable," the commissioner said. Although there are no records on the percentage of the total population vaccinated, he estimated that it is less than one-third.

Michigan's first case of smallpox since November, 1945, was reported April 3 from Emmett county.

County Board Will Reorganize Today

The Delta county board of supervisors will meet at 10 o'clock this morning in the courthouse at Escanaba in annual reorganization session. A chairman will be elected and committees will be appointed for the ensuing year.

Other business may also come before the board.

It is expected that the supervisors will adjourn to a later date, following reorganization, to hear a report of revaluation work now being completed in the county by the J. M. Clemenishaw company. The company is under contract to the county to make a complete reappraisal of taxable property valuations in the 14 townships and the city of Gladstone.

Only one new supervisor is definitely scheduled to be seated on the board. He is Marvin L. Coon of Escanaba, who will succeed Henry Wylie. There may be others from Gladstone and Escanaba, depending on action of the city councils in their reorganization sessions.

Assist Farmers In Trapping Predators

Conservation officers in the Delta-Marquette-Alger district will advise and assist farmers in trapping predators which prey on their livestock, it was announced yesterday by John Anguilm, district conservation supervisor. Inquiries should be addressed to the district office at Escanaba.

Farmers who know there are foxes in their neighborhood are advised to look well to the repair of their fences and hen houses in April, May and June. Conservation department game men say the fox denning season has begun, and little foxes as well as big ones will be dining on the food most convenient to catch, whether it be field mice or young chicks.

With foxes still abundant, the department is anticipating plenty of calls for aid in the next few months. Farmers reporting damage get assistance and instruction in trapping the particular offenders. Fox hunting ceased almost entirely with disappearance of the snow.

Trapping instruction is free to all applicants, whether the culprit be fox or some other predator such as wild dog, wild house cat, great horned owl, weasel, mink or coyote.

Eagles To Initiate Big Class Tonight; Servicemen Honored

will be given in their honor. William Servant, a recently discharged serviceman, has brought twelve applications to the secretary's desk within the past week and expects to have several more for this evening. Unless some dark horse is holding out on the secretary he will sit on top of the Eagle during the meeting. A dutch lunch will be served following the initiation.

Plans are also getting under way for the grand opening of the new clubhouse which will be held in the near future.
